

Haemopoietic Diseases 2: Lymphoproliferative Disorders

Mark Catherwood and Ken Mills

Chapter summary

This chapter has:

- Provided an overview of the criteria used in the current WHO classification of lymphoid neoplasms and how this has evolved to its current state.
- Described the role of immunoglobulin and T-cell receptor rearrangements in lymphoid neoplasms and their role in clonality detection.
- Discussed a variety of laboratory techniques that are used in the diagnosis and monitoring of lymphoid neoplasms.
- Detailed some of the common cytogenetic abnormalities associated with a range of lymphoid neoplasms.
- Provided and insight into the potential role of NGS for the diagnosis and monitoring of lymphoid neoplasms